

Producer

Location: Franklin, TN

Here's your chance to technically work with content where no topic is off-limits, as we engage with complex cultural issues through a biblical lens. We're looking for an enterprising podcast and virtual/video event producer to take our audio and video efforts to the next level. The producer will plan, produce, edit, and release weekly podcasts, as well as plan and manage regular virtual chats and events that are streamed live to our audience.

What You'll Do:

- Build, edit and mix episodes, series, and promotional spots.
- Produce both short and long-form content.
- Coordinate recordings both in the studio and in the field.
- Mix episodes and segments, balancing music, voiceover, and archival tape.
- Liaise with the Editorial Content Manager & Social Media Manager on promotional strategy.
- Publish each episode and write show notes.

Who You Are:

- Solid understanding of audio and video recording and production techniques for podcasts, vodcasts, and video content.

- Familiarity with audio (sample rates, bit depth, file format, etc.), editing software, and podcast distribution platforms.
- A comprehensive understanding of recording analog, digital, microphone type and use case, microphone placement, signal flow, field recording, studio recording, remote recording, audio capture in both PC & Mac environments.
- Ability to source and professionally manage high-profile speakers and guests, as well as coordinate event flow.
- Calm and adaptable under pressure, and a problem solver who meets challenges with resilience in a fast past environment.
- Organized and can prioritize under a deadline.
- The passion, imagination, and ambition needed to build a transformative non-profit.
- Personal thriving and evident relationship with Jesus Christ.

Who We Are:

Q Ideas offers a front-row seat to learn about faith & culture and was founded by Gabe & Rebekah Lyons in 2007 as a platform to help leaders and influencers engage culture from a biblical worldview. Today, we accomplish this mission through media and live events designed for the thoughtful Christian. The “Q” in our name stands for questions, and it comes from the belief that an informed, winsome, and theologically faithful approach starts with Christians who seek to understand, learn and grow.

To Apply:

Please apply ONLY if you meet the above qualifications. Send a cover letter and resume to jobs@qideas.org with the subject line “Producer: [YOUR NAME]” along with written examples of your work. This is a full-time, on-site, mid-level position in Franklin, TN. We are an equal opportunity employer.
